Let's get to know cancer correctly!

Cancer

Cancer is a disease caused by genetic damage due to aging, lifestyle, or other factors, in which abnormal cells increase in the body and form a mass (tumor), which spreads all over the body through blood vessels and creates new tumors.

It is said that 1 in 2 Japanese people will develop some type of cancer in their lifetime.

Statistics from the National Cancer Institute show that the prostate for men and the breast for women are the most common parts of the body in which cancer develops.

The number of cancer patients is increasing, but if it is detected at an early stage by screening, the probability of cure can be increased.

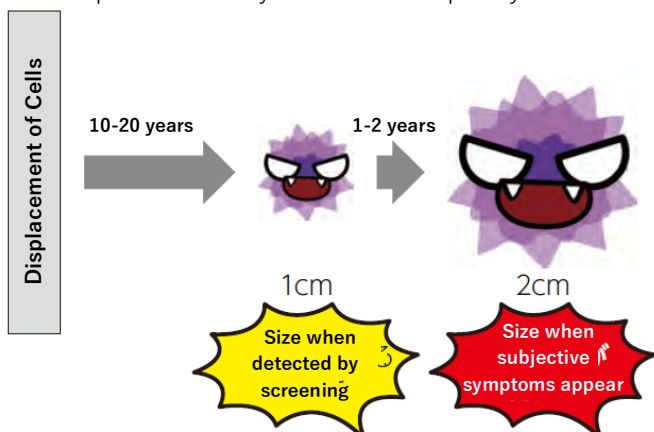

Ranking by part of the body in which cancer is likely to develop (2019)

	Men	Women
1st	Prostate	Breast
2nd	Colon	Colon
3rd	Stomach	Lungs
4th	Lungs	Stomach
5th	Liver	Uterus

Cancer progression and subjective symptoms

Cancer cells grow from a size of 0.01 mm to about 1 cm in size over 10 to 20 years, which can be detected by medical checkups, and then to about 2 cm in another 1 to 2 years.

When it is small, it is difficult to notice it because no subjective symptoms appear, but when it reaches about 2 cm in size, subjective symptoms such as loss of appetite, anemia, and stomach pain appear, depending on the part of the body that has developed by cancer.

Early detection by cancer screening

It is important to undergo a cancer screening once a year to detect cancer cells before symptoms appear.

Please undergo the six types of cancer screenings conducted by the city on a regular basis.

Type of Screening	Eligible Persons
Gastric cancer	Over 35 years old / Once a year
Colorectal cancer	Over 35 years old / Once a year
Chest	Over 40 years old / Once a year
Prostate cancer	Over 50 years old / Once a year
Cervical cancer	Women over 20 years old / Once every 2 years
Breast cancer	Women over 40 years old / Once every 2 years

"Garbage Diet Project"

We are working on the "Garbage Diet Project" to promote waste reduction and recycling.

Drain any fluids from food

It is said that 70-80% of food waste is fluid. If you drain any fluids from food waste before throwing it away, it will make the garbage bag lighter and prevent bad smells.

Tips for draining

- ① Peel vegetables then wash them, to avoid getting peels or food scraps wet.
- ② Use a drain net.
- ③ Leave food waste in a sink strainer overnight to dry.

[VIDEO] Tips for draining

Use up all the food in the refrigerator

If you check the contents of your refrigerator regularly, you can use up food without waste.
